Edgerton News

Edgerton, Feb. 27.—Mayor J. J. Cleary is in receipt of communication from the United States department of labor, commending him for the improvements contemplated by the city next summer, including paving and reconstruction of a city hall. The letter says in part that deferred construction is a part, and a large part, of our war debt. It should be one of the first accounts paid, or the country will remain in a state of arrested development. The resumption of construction activities, both of municipal and private nature, will greatly facilitate the transition from war to a peace basis.

The W. C. T. U. will hold a patriotic meeting at the home of Mrs. Henry Thompson, Friday, Feb. 28, at 3 p. m. The following program will be given: Mrs. Smith, leader, Song, America; Pledges to our flag, Devotional service led by Mrs. Clifton; Roll Call; Americanization of immigrant women; Washington's presidential career and death; Mrs. Williams; Recitation, Barbara Fitchie, by Royal Ladd; Lincoln today, Mrs. Hruska; Talk by one of our soldier boys, Mahlon Ogden; Song, Keep the Home Fires Burning; Mrs. Schmidt; Harvest of Flanders; Song, Star Spangled Banner.

The Senior Dramatic club will give an entertainment Monday, March 3, in the high school assembly room, for the benefit of the high school crimson. The entertainment will consist of a short play entitled "An Un-Invited Member," and a series of tableaux portraying the fashions which our ancestors wore. After the entertainment there will be a social hour in the gym.

Max Zahn, one of the victims of the auto accident at South Janesville, returned to his home.

Word came Wednesday of the arrival of John McDonough from overseas at Camp Merritt, N. J.

The following letter was received by Mrs. Sue Fessenden from a friend of her son, Willard Fessenden: "My Dear Friend: First let me introduce my self to you. Your son, Willard, was in my platoon on the front of the battle of the Argonne. We advanced about 35 kilometers and were stopped by the Germans who started to counter attack us, and I rushed my platoon on the summit of a hill, so that your son, for he was corporal of an automatic rifle squad, could pepper the Germans, and as I was right at his side when we rushed up the hill. But your son never reached that far, for a machine gunner got him through the middle. But whether you want to be proud of your son, I had known him about six months; he was in every battle with me, and he was a fine soldier, a soldier that, his mother can be proud of as long as she lives. Mother, I want you not to feel too bad about Bill, for that was what we called him, and he was liked by everybody from the captain down to the lowest private for he was a man all the way through. "Bill and I were bunkies for about three months, for we didn't live very far apart. My home is in Hammond, Indiana.

"The reason I am writing this letter is because they have Bill marked 'missing' on his letter. Well people, I can't expect a reply from this letter in order that I may know you received it. As ever, Your Friend, "Sergeant Charles Snyder."

DOLLAR DAY BRINGS BUSINESS TO CITY; MERCHANTS PLEASED

"Dollar Day this year was the most successful ever observed by Janesville merchants, according to their statements, following the big trade they experienced yesterday. From early this morning until late at night the stores were thronged with visitors from out of the city as well as people living here. Buying was brisk and when the sales for the day were computed it was found they had exceeded in most cases, any ever before recorded.

The business men are strapping in their praise of the day, and its part in making the day a success. The announcement through the columns of this paper gave assurance that the bargains which were to be offered were really coming for and many traveled several miles to shop.

Following are expressions of merchants concerning their trade: Geo. M. Nauman of T. P. Burns Co.: "Dollar Day was larger in point of dollars and cents business than it was a year ago, although we did not serve as many people. However, the day was a wonderful bargain day and was very well pleased with the results and we feel that our customers are pleased also."

C. B. Bostwick, of R. M. Bostwick & Sons: "Nothing to it, the best Dollar Day we ever had, and that's saying a lot because this store has had some famous Dollar Day sales in the past."

Chas. S. Putnam: "As is usual with us on Dollar Day we offered some extra good bargains and were accorded some extra good patronage. I did not have any bargains to offer for the event, but we are satisfied that Dollar Day is a good thing for the town and supported it accordingly."

Geo. Homsey of Homsey Bros.: "Dollar Day brought us an extra amount of business, a considerable amount over our usual daily sales."

F. H. Koebelin: "Dollar Day is a good thing."

J. H. Scholler: "Dollar Day far exceeded my expectations. We served many more people than we usually serve on an ordinary week day."

Pappas Candy Palace: "It was the first Dollar Day experience of the present money of this business, but we are gratified at the amount of business we did."

H. F. Nott: "Business was very good yesterday, thanks to the Dollar Day movement."

Jack Conley, Conley's Cafe: "Dollar Day helps every business in town, because it brings money into circulation. Our trade was very heavy yesterday."

S. C. Bostwick of J. M. Bostwick & Sons: "Business was fine. It was the biggest Dollar Day the Big Store ever enjoyed. Women were jubilant over the splendid bargains that were offered, and the sales record for the day was good to look at at the close of business."

Louis Kerstel, Badger Dye Works: "Dollar Day this time with us was no good."

F. J. Hinterschied: "Our Dollar Day sales were 30% greater than those of any previous Dollar Day."

Frank Douglas: "We are well pleased with our Dollar Day business. We had no great rush, but a good steady trade all day."

Jos. M. Connors of T. J. Ziegler Clothing Co.: "A tremendous business, fully 75% more than any other Dollar Day."

W. E. Scholten: "A crowd of women were in front of our store when we opened in the morning. We had a large crowd all day. Our bargains were good ones and they were eagerly sought."

Paul Tacht of B. & P. Lucht: "Dollar Day was a good day with us."

F. C. Spohn: "The result of our Dollar Day offerings were most satisfactory."

P. J. Riley: "Dollar Day is a great institution. Certainly helped our business."

C. Bunt of the Red-Cross Pharmacy reports a fair Dollar Day. "The crowds were larger than one would have expected on such a stormy day."

H. A. M. of the Ford & Son says that Dollar Day yesterday was very successful. "While we perhaps did not have the number of people in our store as heretofore on Dollar Day, due to the inclement weather upon figuring up the sales at closing time we found that in dollars and cents we enjoyed the biggest and best Dollar Day we ever had."

Max Shapiro, manager of Klussen's Credit Store, and J. W. Milwaukee street says that Dollar Day with him was very good, which goes to demonstrate again that Klussen's Credit Store is a very popular ready-to-serve store for men, women and children.

Edward P. Dillon, manager of the Savings Bank Store, on South River street, reports Dollar Day as being very successful this year. "We moved very much pleased with results."

Mrs. Josephine Cunningham of Simpson's Garment store says that this was the biggest and best dollar day we ever had. A large crowd was waiting at our front door as early as 7:30 in the morning and our store was a busy one every minute of the day. We are entirely pleased with the results and we feel that a great deal of credit is due this Dollar Day to making this big sales day possible."

Louis C. Levy of the Golden Eagle: "Yesterday was the biggest Dollar Day the Golden Eagle ever had. The business was steady all day long, and in the morning until closing time. Dollar Day is a great event, which in my judgment is made possible only by the splendid co-operations of the merchants and The Daily Gazette."

Henry Solomon of Anderson Brothers: "Dollar Day was a new experience for us, but we went out to it with a purpose and one. We were most agreeably surprised by the great volume of business that came to us yesterday. The Dollar Day plan was a benefit for everyone."

L. Boruzak, Janesville Dry Goods Company: "Our Dollar Day was pretty fair. Wish we could have the same amount of business every day in the year."

Frank Roach, New Method Shoe Parlor: "Our Dollar Day was very successful. The combination of the day, the publicity combined with good values are in a large measure responsible for the success of Dollar Day among the merchants of the city."

John R. Nichols, Nichols Store: "Dollar Day was very satisfactory indeed."

George McNamara, Stupp's Cash Market: "Dollar Day is a great institution and the results are worthy of those who foster the movement."

Andrew Clever of the Savoy cafe on South Main street reports a very good day yesterday.

Mr. Feliz, manager of the T. W. Woolworth company, reports Dollar Day yesterday, as being very successful. In fact, the best Dollar Day that the Woolworth company has ever enjoyed. "Certain items advertised at certain hours of the day," he said, "went like hot cakes. Dollar Day is a good thing."

H. M. Jackson, representing the T. M. E. R. & L. Co., said the bill and amendment would mean a duplication of the work of getting out the payroll, that the check would have to be made out, but at the same time the company would have to have the cash on hand to cash the checks upon demand."

W. J. Fairbairn opposed the bill for the Milwaukee Chamber of Commerce, declaring that there is no demand for such a measure."

CHAPPEL FRATERNAL RATE BILL STIRS UP STRONG DISCUSSION

Madison, Feb. 27.—Strong opposition to the Chapple bill to put the new laws of fraternal societies on an adequate basis after July 1, 1920, appeared before the committee on insurance and banking of the house, Wednesday afternoon. The measure, which would require the payment of a "square deal" as a "real business proposition" and as a plan that "every member of the legislature should favor." PRODUCTION AND WAGES.

One of the most serious problems which is confronting us in this time of reconstruction is that of production and wages. The City National Bank of New York City has expressed some views on the subject which will appeal to the fair-minded man. It says in part:

"In this country, wage rates are generally maintained, and most employers wish to maintain them at least until a readjustment can be made concurrently with the decline of articles of common consumption. To a great extent wages and prices are interlocked, high prices being due to high wages paid to producers. The pay of one group of workers is reduced and the prices of their products decline, the consumers of these products are gainers at the expense of that group of workers. The latter then have a just claim that reductions shall be made in the goods which they have to buy. Fairness requires that all shall come down together."

The reduction which will affect the greatest number of people at once are those in foodstuffs and clothing materials. The producers of foodstuffs are so many in number and so widely scattered that any general combination among them to maintain prices has always proved unpractical. Their products respond quickly to the conditions of supply and demand and are now falling, although the world food situation is not yet clear. Certainly they will decline largely by the end of another crop year. But as their products come down, the farmers will naturally and reasonably claim reductions in the prices of what they must buy, and this probably will involve wage reductions in other lines."

The crucial question in every industry is not a theoretical or sentimental one, but the practical one whether the products of the industry can be sold in sufficient volume on a given level of prices to afford employment to all the people working in that industry. There may be different theories about it in advance, and the opinion of the wage-earners may be as good as that of the proprietors; certainly one side has as good a right to its opinion as the other. But eventually there will be a demonstration, and then it will be good policy for both sides to conform to the results. The public is the final employer, and it doesn't pay anybody to quarrel with the public for not buying his products or giving him employment. The public buys what it pleases to, and the wise man adapts himself to its wishes, and if he cannot attract its patronage at one price, he can at another. The labor organizations are definitely of the opinion that it is better for them to put up with part time rather than reduce a wage rate which has been established, and they may be right about it if it takes a fight every time to get their wages restored. But on the other hand if low production and high prices delay the general recovery of industry, causing a reduction of consumption, it is well to remember that the laboring people of the country are suffering on both sides of the dead-lock, for they are the chief body of consumers as well as of wage-earners."

"The same is true of the effort on the part of the wage-earners to shorten the work-day. The length of the work-day is a matter for conference and very careful consideration in all its aspects. It is wise to add to the burdens of industry at this time? We will not affirm that shortening the hours will always reduce the output and increase the cost, because that is a fact which can be determined best by actual test in the different industries. If it does not reduce the output, nobody will object to it, and on the other hand if a general reduction of the hours of labor does reduce the output and raise the price of every article of consumption, the laboring people, who are the chief body of consumers, will find the burden inevitably falling upon them, not by compulsion or manipulation, but because they are consumers."

"One very large experiment of this kind has been tried in the last two years, by reducing the unit day of railway employees to 8 hours. It is true that the hours of labor were not commonly reduced to 8 hours, but probably nobody ever supposed they would be, and however that may be, railway charges have gone up 25 per cent, and the increase enters into the cost of living of every family in the country."

"The effect would be more serious if the hours of trainmen actually had been reduced to 8 hours, because then a larger labor force would be required to operate the roads, and men would be withdrawn from other industries, reducing production and making their living expenses higher."

"In saying this we are not pronouncing against the 8-hour day, or assuming to fix the number of hours which should be worked in any industry. We are only stating what must follow if a reduction of the hours makes it necessary to employ more workers to produce a given result. The effect will be distributed over the entire consuming public, and it will be the effect of scarcity. It may be best to reduce the hours of labor in spite of this effect. Perhaps it would be better for the entire population to get along with less of the things they want, and have a shorter work-day, but will everybody be satisfied with this result?"

"There is of course an amount of exertion, varying with the kind, beyond which the worker deteriorates or fails to recuperate. Certainly labor should not go beyond that. The loss of economy in doing beyond that, and the best interests of society forbid it. It has been demonstrated in some industries that men will do, approximately as much work in 8 hours as in 10. That ought to settle the question, in those industries without argument. In other cases it may be urged that although there may be some decline in production there is a saving to the man, wear and tear which prolongs the efficiency of the worker. This is a valid argument when supported by the facts. It may be also urged that shorter hours, with more time for leisure and reading, will give a higher class of workmen, who will contribute to the development and efficiency of industry, and thus produce eventually even higher economic results. This, however, is a valid argument, but likewise is the proposed action will result in a diminution of output it must be remembered that counter considerations of precisely the same character must be taken into the account. The effect of reducing the supply of goods to consumers—who are the workers themselves—must be weighed against the benefits derived by the same people from working shorter hours."

"If a family was living on an island, with no communication with the outside world, supplying all its own wants, the direct relation between its labor and the satisfaction of its wants would be very clear. It would decide for itself whether it would obtain greater benefits by working longer hours or having more leisure. In industrial society the situation is more complicated but the question is the same. If the hours of labor are to be reduced to the extent of curtailing production, everybody should understand just what it means to himself, to his own family. What is he willing to give up, that he now has, for shorter hours? Is he willing to do with less milk or butter, or clothing, or house-furnishings, or with a smaller apartment, less fuel, or fewer amusements? It comes at last to this, and the value of the time we want against the value of the time we want to save from labor, measuring both by the same estimate, to-wit, how will our highest interests and the progress of society be best promoted?"

JANESVILLE PUBLICITY.
That the spirit with which Janesville is grasping civic problems, is attracting the attention of not only surrounding cities, but national officials, is shown by the letter received from Secretary of Labor Wilson, by Mayor Valentine.

Mr. Wilson thanks the city council and the Chamber of Commerce for their interest in the construction of the Jackson street bridge. He expresses the hope that the proposal to erect a new high school and improve grade schools, along with construction of a memorial building for soldiers will be successfully pushed.

Janesville, though her Chamber of Commerce, in the last few months, has attracted a great deal of attention in cities all over the United States. Requests for the housing plan which is fostered by the chamber, have been received from many municipalities which are facing problems similar to those confronting this city. The government approved the housing plan, and has offered to give any assistance needed to bring about its successful operation. Citizens of Janesville should feel proud of the reputation the city is getting throughout the nation. The publicity given is much greater than most people realize. The name, Janesville, formerly meant a thrifty little city, famed with serving a limited clientele. The name Janesville today in many circles means a city which is ready to become the home of great activities; the place where contented workmen can have comfortable homes built for them, and a place where men of vision, in both business and civic life, are striving to bring about an ideal reconstruction of their resources. Janesville's task of emerging from a more or less mediocre city is given encouragement by the fact that those previously unacquainted with us and our facilities are generous in their praise of our spirit of progress."

It is perhaps difficult for those who have lived here for years to appreciate our position in this territory. We look at our surroundings with a different vision than those who come to visit us. We see the things which we have been familiar with for years, and which we consider commonplace. Those who come from the outside see the same things and marvel that the city has not taken the advantage of the opportunities which have been here since the first settlement. Talk to most any stranger who has been here recently and he will tell you that he has come to offer and he will become enthusiastic over our railroad facilities, over our location in relation to great markets and distributing points, over our rich farming community, and those prosperous farmers who have made the community's fame known all over the nation."

"One very large experiment of this kind has been tried in the last two years, by reducing the unit day of railway employees to 8 hours. It is true that the hours of labor were not commonly reduced to 8 hours, but probably nobody ever supposed they would be, and however that may be, railway charges have gone up 25 per cent, and the increase enters into the cost of living of every family in the country."

"The effect would be more serious if the hours of trainmen actually had been reduced to 8 hours, because then a larger labor force would be required to operate the roads, and men would be withdrawn from other industries, reducing production and making their living expenses higher."

"In saying this we are not pronouncing against the 8-hour day, or assuming to fix the number of hours which should be worked in any industry. We are only stating what must follow if a reduction of the hours makes it necessary to employ more workers to produce a given result. The effect will be distributed over the entire consuming public, and it will be the effect of scarcity. It may be best to reduce the hours of labor in spite of this effect. Perhaps it would be better for the entire population to get along with less of the things they want, and have a shorter work-day, but will everybody be satisfied with this result?"

"There is of course an amount of exertion, varying with the kind, be-luxury tax clause in the revenue law. The war department and many administrative experts would check the wanton waste which has been allowed to go on unhindered, it would not be necessary to tax the working girl for a new dress."

Another plan for a short legislative session was proposed to the scrap heap Wednesday, when the assembly killed the Ganz resolution for a constitutional amendment, limiting the term of law-making to 80 days. The legislator who can devise some scheme which will successfully provide for a short session will win a niche in the state's hall of fame."

Saloonkeepers are undecided as to whether they shall reduce the size of beers and charge a fifty, or maintain the present measure and tilt the price. However, their anxiety in the matter will not affect them for long. July first is but four months away."

THEIR OPINIONS

Little Opposition.
The automobile man, however, don't seem much inclined to oppose the advances in railroad fares.—Marquette Eagle-Star.

The Difference.
There are a lot of agitated persons who seem to have plenty of vision but a limited amount of ordinary eyesight.—Racine Journal.

Bob Getting "Tough."
Battio Bob is getting a little tough. At this late date he shouts "I will no longer permit any man to asperse my name to this government." For late, old top, the war has passed on. Help, to be good help, should be given when help is needed.—Eau Claire Leader.

He May Remember.
Possibly Senator La Follette will think the Wisconsin assembly just a little impudent in presuming to suggest to him how he should vote on a league of nations treaty. He may have some memory of some of the resolutions passed by the Wisconsin legislature a year ago.—Kenosha News.

Optimism.
From indications that may be apparent only to publishers the business outlook is better than it appears on the surface. While showing a tendency to exaggerate present dullness, many business men are already looking ahead to better times and laying plans accordingly.—Appleton Post.

Threats.
The big fight in the Wisconsin legislature this session is going to be over the foreign language question. Already the members are being threatened with "seventy thousand votes" and other bad things if they dare to support the measure. The bill has been reported in for passage, however, despite the threats.—Ashland Press.

Why Kick?
There may be a lot of kicking on the payment of income tax, particularly by individuals who had not been obliged to pay a tax of this kind before. However, we ought to be thankful that it isn't any worse than it is. If the war had cost the United States proportionately as much, according to population, as it did Great Britain, every American citizen having an income of $2,400 per year would be paying a tax of $1,000.—Antigo Journal.

ON THE SPUR of the MOMENT

ROY K. MOULTON

A LITTLE SLICE OF LIFE.
The other evening we were invited to eat dinner in a cafe. With a gent friend of ours—A very fine-appearing jumbo. With a soft collar in everything. I noticed when we were taking the hat and coat check. For both our hats and coats. It was a fine dinner. He ordered all he could read and talked entertainingly. Of a recent trip through Egypt. Toward the end of the meal, Or at the very end of it. He excused himself. And went to the telephone. To call a man up about a dog. The waiter brought the check. Which amounted to fourteen bones. And laid it in the middle of the table, not caring. Which one grabbed it. My friend stayed a half hour. And I went to the phone booth. And I was not there. Then I tried the hat checker. He said my friend had been gone. For some time. The moral of this story is: Always insist on being the Custodian of the coat checks."

Next to the man who is brave enough to go to a dance without wearing suspenders, we believe the party entitled to the Croix de Guerre is the wimp who eats roasted chestnuts in the dark."

THE DIFFERENCE.
The footpad of the good old days lurked in the shadows. And sneaked thereout now and then to hit some wretch a whack. But times have changed. The bandit now loots in some glad hand. Then salutes forth and holds us up in a rakish Henry car. —Tennyson J. Daft.

ACCIDENTAL FRENCH.
An American lady in Paris wanted some water, but could not make the maid understand she wanted it hot. After several vain attempts, she exclaimed: "S'il vous plait, donnez-moi de l'eau chaude." The maid returned with a pitcher of hot water. It was not until some time afterward that the lady learned from a friend that the girl had evidently mistaken "S'il" for "chaud," which is the French for "hot."

When the liquor boats are established in a solid phalanx, out in the well-known Atlantic, we can see a rapid decline in the sale of automobiles and a brisk advance in the sale of motor boats. A man who owns a motor boat will belong to the aristocracy, and as to the fancy swimmers, they will be giving lessons twenty-four hours a day at $10 a lesson."

A friend of ours calls his wife Crystal, because she is always on the watch."

Canada Gives Land
Appleton, Feb. 27.—"The Canadian government is doing more for its soldiers than the United States," said Thomas J. Connelly of Perth, Canada, who with his wife and children are visiting relatives in this city. "The government is not only giving them some of the best land, but also loans each man $2,500 with which to start a farm. The money is loaned for a number of years so that it will work no hardships to anyone."

FORTY YEARS AGO

The Janesville Daily Gazette, Feb. 27, 1879.—The opera of the "Doctor of Alcázar," was again presented to a full house last evening, and again called forth well merited applause and high tributes of praise. The singers deserve all the praise which they have earned by hard work and by well trained musical ability. In all respects it takes the lead of all entertainments presented here. With such soloists as Mrs. St. John, Mrs. H. A. Smith, Mrs. C. B. Conrad, Dr. Barnes, D. D. Bennett, and W. M. Titcomb, supported by a good chorus, the music charmingly and the opera will be presented in Harvard this evening and tomorrow evening in Watertown.

The new statute making it an offense to use abusive or obscene words, has been subjected to a sharp fire of criticism. Thus far there has been only two cases brought here one of which is still pending before Justice Wickham. The other one was brought before Justice Prichard this morning and was the first case to be decided by any justice here. The complaining witness claimed that the accused had called him a liar, a rascal and several other provocative words. Justice decided after hearing the evidence that the charges were not sustained. Scarcely a day passes that some one does not threaten to swear out a warrant against someone for vile language.

Prof. Severance closed his first term of dancing lessons last evening and at the request of his pupils decided to continue for another term.

The Episcopalians and Catholics entertained upon Lent yesterday with appropriate services and sermons.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

RICHES.

He owns no costly limousine:
He rolls from dawn to dusk each day.

The moving pictures on a screen,
For which a pittance he must pay,
Give him his life's drama and beguile
His dreary thoughts to visions fair.

Yet he is richer all the while
Than many a lonely millionaire:
For when his daily tasks are done
Glad children, that he cannot check,
On eager feet to meet him run,
And throw their arms about his neck.

The grease of toil is on his face;
His garments are not spick and span;
Yet there is something in his pace
Which marks the true and sturdy man.

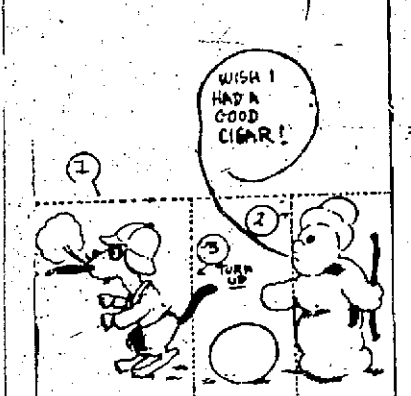

His home is small and on a street
Removed from mansions great and fine,
Yet there are love and laughter sweet,
And ready a climbing vine,
And children who, beneath the grime
Of toil, see what the thoughtless miss.

They lean to him and maily climb
His stalwart frame, his cheeks to kiss.
He envies men their manly fine
And thinks they harbor richer joys
Than laughter and the climbing vine,
And little girls and little boys.

But many a rich man glad at eve,
When he sees his wife come glad at eve,
And mutters: "Homeward bound,
am I,
But no such greeting I'll receive."
To life the man he's reconciled,
Though fame and fortune went to wreck.

Had he a trusting little child
To throw glad arms about his neck!

CRAIG TELLS M. E. BROTHERHOOD OF CITY'S DEVELOPMENT

"Janesville can be said to have the most promising future of any city in the United States," said J. A. Craig, speaking before the Methodist Brotherhood last evening. Mr. Craig was in a most optimistic mood, and gave a most heartening talk to the 150 men present on the outlook of conditions in the city at this time, with the coming of the Samson Tractor company, and bespoke the cooperation of the present in solving many problems which are coming up in the near future.

He felt particularly that the people of the churches could do much to help in keeping the spirit of the community right in providing homes for them.

Praises Housing Corporation. Mr. Craig made a tribute to the housing corporation which has just completed a plan for helping to build homes for newcomers, and said that this action of the citizens of Janesville was a splendid example of the splendid spirit of the people of the community.

In a reminiscent mood he reviewed the complacency with which Janesville has formerly been contented to sit placidly while affairs were declining in the city, and he noted the fact that they were satisfied with the high school and the city government. But he felt that Janesville was now on the right track and was beginning to care for these problems in a real way.

"Peaceful citizens who liked a country town might be annoyed," he said, "and taxes might go up to care for these increased needs, but the healthy modern community, which was being planned and not any boom town."

He was confident that Janesville would grow from the inside out, and that the vacant lots within the present limits could accommodate at least one-third more population than those cared for at present.

Wants Wholesome Growth. He is anxious that Janesville should become a city of homes, with a progressive population, who should all speak the American language, and become good citizens of this community. He recalled the fact that the newcomers would have the right to vote for municipal affairs, and that they must be made to feel an interest in the right kind of conditions for the community.

In closing, he paid a high tribute to J. D. Bist, the head of the General Motors corporation, and said that he was one of the few wealthy men of the nation who had a vision of the finer elements of life than on the commercial side of living, and is deeply interested in all things, like parks, drives and other ways of making the city a better place to live in.

Surveys have been made by paid experts of the company who had not only determined the best plans for sewerage disposal and water supply, but also had made tentative plans in regard to harmonizing architecture and other forms of housing plans. He said that to build a city to sell to a person one can be informed just what such type he would require, and what he could afford to pay monthly, with the salary which is earned.

Mr. Craig dwelt on the fortunate situation which Janesville occupied in respect to shipping facilities, and said that this district being within a hundred miles of Chicago was a great advantage. He outlined the plan of the company in building another unit of the factory in this district, to manufacture the engines and another later to make the wheels required for the tractors. It was contemplated making some other lines of farm utility products as soon as possible, he said.

Plans For Workmen. He emphasized the thought that workmen would be brought here for these various industries, and that they could be housed and no faster. The company did not want to see its employees crowded into tenements, or living in unwholesome environments. Mr. Craig voiced the hope that the fact that the opening of the factory would help to solve the problem of unemployment at this time and give an opportunity of going back to the home town. He hoped that it would also give the boys of the community a chance for employment so they could be in the city instead of being forced to seek work elsewhere.

Another thought that gave him happiness, was the fact that with the closing of the seasons on July 1, these men and women could be turned to other and more profitable uses, as they would no doubt be needed for many mercantile projects by that time. Many personal stories of his experience in connection with the general public and their various conflicting feelings concerning the tractor plant were narrated by Mr. Craig and gave a humorous and interesting picture of the situation. He told of Horace Greely in which he located the Garden of Eden in Rock County, in the lower tier of counties of Wisconsin and less than 100 miles from Chicago.

Musical Program Given. Mr. Conway, the president of the Brotherhood, presided at the meeting, and introduced the speaker to the audience. A preliminary musical program was given. A quartet consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Richards, Miss Margaret McCulloch and Miss Ethel Lang. They responded with an encore. Walter Helms played a collection of old melodies on the saxophone, in an improvisation. He also played some of the old tunes like "Old Lang Syne" and others, closing with "Home, Sweet Home." Mrs. Helms furnished the running accompaniment of chords which formed the setting for them.

The next meeting will be held on the third Wednesday in March and will be Ladies' night.

SHERIFF BELEY FAILS TO LOCATE ASSAILANT

Sheriff Fred Beley was reposing in his favorite chair at the county jail yesterday afternoon, waiting after a long drive, when the telephone rang. Undersheriff Waterman answered the phone and an excited voice asked that the sheriff come to the old Clark farm about three miles east of Avalon at once as a man by the name of George Trainor was assaulting the two Strong boys.

Sheriff Beley jumped in his car and started over. He was driving through snow and the cold and wondering if he would arrive in time to prevent a murder.

When the call was received the man stated over the phone that his assailant was standing over him with a shot gun. Sheriff Beley made the cold trip in record time and upon arriving was unable to locate any parties by the name of Strong or Trainor.

Sheriff Beley made an investigation of the surrounding neighborhood, inquiring at each farm house but he was told that no parties were unknown in that section.

He ventured as far as the county line about five miles east of Avalon but was unable to find any trace of the parties or any clue to the alleged assault.

This morning Sheriff Beley is still wondering if an assault was committed or if some practical joker wanted to play a joke on him.

BELOIT MEN HELD ON SERIOUS CHARGE

Fred Krueger and Charles Bonis, Beloit, who were arrested Sunday on a serious charge, were taken to Beloit today to have their preliminary examination. Feeling against the two men is high in Beloit and both of them asked for protection on their trip to the Gateway City.

It is alleged that Krueger, a Wausau man, who has been operating the roller ring in Beloit and Bemis, aged seventeen, his assistant enticed two Beloit girls, ages 14 and 16 to the home of Krueger on Saturday night after the roller ring had closed.

Krueger's wife it is claimed, was out of the city and the men kept night. Both men deny any mistreatment of the girls.

Early this morning, the girls' parents, becoming alarmed at their absence notified the police and shortly afterward the police were told by neighbors that Krueger's "that a party was being staged in the Krueger home."

A hurried trip was made to the Krueger home and the girls were found locked in the attic when the police searched the home. Both girls claimed they were attacked by the men after they had been enticed to the house.

One of the girls' brothers, it is claimed, was enraged at the men and organized a party of friends, and it was rumored about Beloit that a lynching bee was to be held if the men could be found.

When arrested the men were hurried to the Beloit police station and then brought to this city for safe keeping.

When sitting in the smoker when E. B. Hogan, the conductor, who by the way is a deputy sheriff, came through collecting fares. Mooney it is claimed, stuck his hand in the conductor's pocket and was taken to the station.

Later as Hogan was going through the car Mooney struck him with his fist. He was again put in his seat and told to remain there until he got to Janesville.

When the car reached Eastern avenue Hogan went through collecting fares and this time Mooney hit him in the back of the head and in the face. Hogan put Mooney down and sat on him until the Myers hotel was reached when he was again turned over to an officer.

FARMERS HOLD BIG MEET AT WHITEWATER

(By a Staff Correspondent)
Whitewater, Feb. 26.—The latest and the best on the farm, was the keynote of the opening session of a two days' meeting of the farmers of Jefferson, Rock, and Walworth counties here this morning.

Speakers for the afternoon session were Mrs. Nellie K. Jones, Madison; Miss Grace Johnson, Elkhorn; A. J. Glover, Fort Atkinson; E. G. Lang, Whitewater; and G. C. Humphrey, Madison.

Ralph Pratt, Whitewater, who presided at the morning session of men in the straw theatre, introduced A. J. Gafke of Jefferson, who spoke as follows:

"We owe a great deal of gratitude to the late Governor Hoard in introducing the alfalfa crop to this state. He began to experiment with alfalfa on two lots back of his house. When he found it was a success, he introduced it to the farmers. Alfalfa will not thrive on a wet, sour soil."

Mr. Gafke laid special stress on the necessity of inoculating the seed. Farmers should make sure if a alfalfa seed is sown with it. A good crop of alfalfa should yield five tons per acre.

Prof. G. C. Humphrey, second speaker, emphasized the need of pure bred sires. He said that at the present time there was a pure bred sire campaign under way due to the special interest regarding dairy cows in this part of the state. Pure bred sires mean 100 per cent blood of some distinct breed, he said. There are five dairy breeds developed for distinct purposes. Most of ours are not good machines. They do not pay for the hired man. A cow must have in the life stream of her particular family the right determining factors. Otherwise feeding is useless.

News Notes from Movieland

BY DAISY DEAN

Moving pictures have always been talked about as family entertainments. They were heralded as the one amusement which took in the entire family. Nowadays they are becoming family affairs not only for the audiences, but for the actors also.

There's the Pickford family, Mary, Lottie, Jack and Mrs. Pickford, and then the Marsh family, that popular Moore family including the in-laws, is another, and now comes the word that three members of the most famous of stage families are to appear in a picture together. Ethel, John and Lionel Barrymore are the trio and the picture is to be a screen version of Du Maurier's famous book and play, "Peter Ibbetson." Of course it will be a Famous Players-Lasky production.

John and Lionel appeared together in the stage production of this sublimely good, but the photoplay will mark the first appearance of all three Barrymores in one production, on either stage or screen.

John Barrymore has been on the stage for more than fifteen years and has been a star since 1904. Of late years he has starred in Paramount pictures, among which may be mentioned "The Dictator," "Are You a Mason?" "The Man From Mexico," "On the Quiet," "Here Comes the Bride," and others.

Ethel Barrymore is one of the most popular actresses on the American stage. Starting her dramatic career as a child, she made her debut as a star in "Captain Jinks of the Horse Marines," and achieved instant popularity. She has made numerous appearances on the screen, her most recent picture being "The Divorcee."

Lionel Barrymore in the early years of his career made a notable success in the title role of "Pantaloons." The biggest hit of his career was made last year in "The Copperhead." He is still playing the part in Chicago. He has made several appearances in pictures in comedy and dramatic parts.

In the screen version of "Peter Ibbetson," it is understood that John and Lionel will play the same characters which they did on the stage, those of Peter and Colonel Ibbetson, respectively, while Miss Barrymore will be seen as the Duchess of Towers.

TEMPERAMENTAL DOROTHY

Dorothy Gish's tussle with the flu has left her in a rather delicate state of health and she is being pampered and spoiled to death by all her friends. Constance Tammage suggested that an automobile trip to one of the beaches would be nice.

"Which one?" asked Dorothy. "Oh, Venice, for instance."

"Too much noise," "Well, try Laguna Beach."

"Too quiet, I need some variety." "Then try Santa Monica." "I will not. I said I wanted variety and I know every blamed wave on that ocean." The trip has been postponed.

Taking the show as a whole, it is full of singing, dancing, music, comedy and vivid stories of trench life. The musical end of this program is held up by the famous 87th Infantry band and jazz orchestra.

In many of the cities the boys have been given receptions and have been met at the train by a delegation headed by a band and escorted to the hotel where a banquet awaited them. They are shown a good time everywhere and crowded houses greet them every night, and it is certain that the public spirited citizens here, will not neglect the boys who fought for us.

Was Probably Right.

A little cousin, aged five, had finished his private lesson. His mother was anxious to speak to the tutor, and "Billy" was requested to leave the room and work elsewhere. He objected, and when asked the reason from being swept away by the current, he answered: "If I go out, you'll make an opinion about me!"

Sponge Industry.

The best sponges come from the Levant, in the eastern Mediterranean, and are obtained by diving. The Levantine sponge divers often cut pieces from large sponges, replant the pieces, and tie them to stakes to keep them from being swept away by the current. They soon grow at an enormous rate.

A WOMAN'S BUSINESS

BY ZOE BECKLEY

THE BUSINESS PATH.

Following the dinner at which Janet Stedman met the various men and women who were to work under her, she was left alone. Not on her own account, but on her husband's. Janet's heart ached with love and the pity to which love leads when she thought of what at that dinner, how splendid he had looked—how handsome, how "thoroughbred," how big and strong and capable. Yet no one had noticed him. She had seen him the center of attention—who was to be director-in-chief of the big business magazine, "Woman." Even Roy Nicol, its owner, had been so absorbed in the situation in which a man and a woman have equal prominence, the woman will catch and hold popular attention every time.

Janet longed to have Walt share in the appearance. But it seemed he could not. For the moment at least he was in the unfavorable position of being a "husband." His success must be won by his own efforts. He must work out the steep path of authorship. While Janet had her work—her success—she could not leave her husband.

"Waltie, dear old lad," she said, peering at him from behind her hand. "I can still turn back. I may not be big enough to swing this job after all. If I am to succeed, I must have to work terribly hard. Only half of me will belong to my home and to you. I somehow feel—"

But he would not let her finish. He laid down his old pipe and drew her face to his own, holding her head gently while she answered with all his wonted energy and resolution. "Hush, girl! I know what you want to say. Let us have a clear understanding at the start. Jan, that you must do nothing but perfect freedom in this undertaking."

"You have gone into it, now give it your whole heart, your best thoroughness. If I do not finish from the start, you surely will not. And I do NOT flinch from it, Janet. I welcome it. If this man Nicol can give you a greater chance at self-employment and usefulness to the world than I can—at present, anyhow—let him do it! I'll meet his challenge, dear. Have no fears for me."

"But suppose I have to go away—"

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am going with a young man of twenty. He is always kind and thoughtful and says he loves me. I think a great deal of him also. Recently he went home on a visit. Since he has been gone I get letters from him all the time. He still says he loves me, but when I asked him when he was coming home he said he could not come for a while and also could not tell me the reason. I wrote and asked why he couldn't tell me and he says he will tell me as soon as he gets back.

Shall I wait until he comes and let him explain or write and demand an explanation? D.M.E.S.

Do not demand an explanation. He is not unreasonable in asking you to wait.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been a widow for two months. My husband died of the influenza and left me with a three-year-old girl to support. My friends have been very kind to me and I have had good positions. One position is in an office and I would take it in a minute if it did not separate me from my little girl.

The other position is to keep house for a widow with three children. Two of his children are in high school and the other is a little girl five years old. He is willing that I should keep a little house and what would you advise me to do? MRS. C.

I would advise you to take the position of housekeeper where you would not be separated from your child. If you took up office work you would have to confront the problem of paying rent and board for the two of you, but as housekeeper all the money you make will be clear.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Do you think that in writing to a girl whom I have never met I did right? I saw this girl several times during the war.

New Hats Marked
By Jaunty Shapes

By ELOISE.

There are arguments to suit every type of feminine beauty this season. There are turbans high and low, flaring and narrow, tall crowned, narrow brimmed hats, models of the new style, many pokes and tricornes and then probably a few more that I have forgotten.

There are just about as great a variety of materials used as there are shapes, too. There is a pronounced tendency to use fabrics instead of straw or to combine straw with satin, crepe, or crepe de chine. The conventional ribbon, wings and foliage are much in evidence as trimming, but it is feathers which have taken on amazing forms and are being made to do wonderful things on the new spring chapeaux.

Here are two of the very smartest hats I have yet seen. Both make excellent use of feathers. The one with the ostrich plumes placed so demurely at the back is made of a purple crushed silk which is used in the same fashion as broad straw. The other hat is so madame of the millinery salon tells me, a "snappy" suit hat. It is made of blue straw and satin combined and has an "egg" feather ornament for trimming. It is suitable for both morning and afternoon wear while the ostrich hat is for afternoon only.

RECIPES FOR A DAY.

Beef Casserole. Cut one pound of round steak and slice in two inch square. Rub over the inner surface of a hot frying pan with a bit of fat; put in pieces of steak and cook them first on one side and then on the other. Harden meat and keep in juices; put the meat in casserole; add one pint of broth or hot water and set to cook in oven. Brown three or four small onions in fat and add to the casserole; then brown about one dozen pieces each of potato and "carrot" in the fat and add them to the casserole. Add broth or boiling water to cover the whole. Sprinkle with parsley and salt and pepper as needed. Cover the casserole and cook about an hour or until meat and vegetables are tender.

Danish Pudding—Four teaspoon pearl tapioca, four tablespoons sugar, one-quarter teaspoon salt; one cup tart red jelly.

Wash and soak the tapioca in three cups of cold water over night; put on and boil until clear, about one hour; add sugar, salt and jelly. Pour into mold or bowl, which has been rinsed with cold water; set in cold place until ready to serve. Turn out on shallow bowl or deep plate; garnish with whipped cream, if desired, or four marshmallows cut in small pieces with the scissors may be sprinkled over top.

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO DR. BRADY, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE.

AN IMPORTANT LITTLE GLAND.

Lying at the base of the brain above the roof of the back room of the nasal cavity is a little ductless gland called the pituitary body. The posterior lobe of this little gland is presumed to be the brain center of the sympathetic nervous system. The anterior lobe secretes and feeds into the blood an important "hormone" (chemical messenger) which has an important influence on the various functions of the body.

Sometimes the pituitary body fails to secrete enough of its peculiar hormone, and when this happens the following results are observed:

The individual accumulates a great excess of fat, especially in the neck and about the waist. The body becomes scanty upon all parts of the body if the individual is a male; if a female, on the contrary, there is a tendency toward the growth of hair on the skin after the masculine type. If the condition develops in a boy before puberty (which is between the twelfth and fifteenth years) the skeleton assumes the feminine type, tendency toward knock-knees and wide hips and tapering thighs. In these cases of hypopituitarism, as the condition is called, there is almost always an abnormal capacity for drinking water and a greatly increased functional activity of the kidneys as regards the excretion of water. Another rather characteristic feature is a tremendous capacity for sugar, an aversion to which the obesity is popularly but wrongly attributed.

The skin of an individual with a functional insufficiency of the pituitary gland is smooth and soft, pale and thin. Quite different from one who is overweight or obese from thyroid deficiency, for in this case the skin is coarse and dry and the face is yellow. The blood pressure in hypopituitarism is below the normal, usually the pulse rate is rapid and in general the individual is not as strong as others of his age.

The condition is remediable only if taken early and treated over a period of many months. Most patients are either indifferent or complainant enough to subject the child to any and every remedy except medical management, and therefore comparatively few cures of hypopituitarism have been reported. With the exception of those which nature happens to effect in early adult life.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

After the "Elu" was over.

I had a severe attack of the flu about two months ago, and since I got out I find that my hair is falling out. Can you recommend something? (Gladys Ellen.)

When the hair is likely to fall out excessively following any severe illness, but with full recovery it will again grow. The hair is a "victim" of the disease. You would establish a reputation for yourself. Proper treatment of the scalp is the best hair tonic.

Tonsils and Heart Disease.

If diseased tonsils were the cause of valvular heart disease (with dilatation) would the tonsils have to be removed? (Gladys Ellen.)

RECIPES FOR A DAY.

Beef Casserole. Cut one pound of round steak and slice in two inch square. Rub over the inner surface of a hot frying pan with a bit of fat; put in pieces of steak and cook them first on one side and then on the other. Harden meat and keep in juices; put the meat in casserole; add one pint of broth or hot water and set to cook in oven. Brown three or four small onions in fat and add to the casserole; then brown about one dozen pieces each of potato and "carrot" in the fat and add them to the casserole. Add broth or boiling water to cover the whole. Sprinkle with parsley and salt and pepper as needed. Cover the casserole and cook about an hour or until meat and vegetables are tender.

Danish Pudding—Four teaspoon pearl tapioca, four tablespoons sugar, one-quarter teaspoon salt; one cup tart red jelly.

Wash and soak the tapioca in three cups of cold water over night; put on and boil until clear, about one hour; add sugar, salt and jelly. Pour into mold or bowl, which has been rinsed with cold water; set in cold place until ready to serve. Turn out on shallow bowl or deep plate; garnish with whipped cream, if desired, or four marshmallows cut in small pieces with the scissors may be sprinkled over top.

Amber Marmalade—One large grapefruit, one orange, one lemon, six cups water, one cup sugar.

Wash the grapefruit and cut in half, remove the pulp with a teaspoon, set in cold place until ready to peel. Cut the grapefruit in quarters, remove the fiber, put peel in an earthen bowl with two quarts of cold water, and let stand 24 hours; drain, cover with fresh water, set in cold place until ready to serve. Turn out on shallow bowl or deep plate; garnish with whipped cream, if desired, or four marshmallows cut in small pieces with the scissors may be sprinkled over top.

FAIRIES TRIM CARDS
36 TO 30 IN ROUGH
BASKETBALL CONTEST

In a red-hot struggle at the armory last night the Beloit Fairies rammed away with a 36 to 30 victory over the Lakota Cardinals. It was one of the most exciting and bitterly fought basketball battles seen here this season. At many times it resembled a rough football contest with fighters from both sides diving all over the floor after the ball, upsetting each other for some beautiful spills.

It was the Cards' poor showing in the first period, which spelled defeat. The Fairies had things practically all their own way in this half running their score up to 23, while the Cards were able to gather only 15 counters. It was just a little too much for the local bunch in the opening frame. The former I. A. C. tower dropped in eight ringers from all angles of the floor. In the second half he was held to two baskets by Caserly.

Hemming Stars.
 The Cards put up a great exhibition in the second period holding the invaders to four baskets while scoring 15 points. Beloit's Hemming was clearly the ball down the floor to a more comfortable position. If Caserly had had a running mate of his own calibre the score might have been different but Grant of Madison was clearly out of the ball.

Beloit showed up a world of teamwork in the first half. Phillips with Murphy and Dixon kept the sphere most of the time but were unable to get it past the middle of the floor. Hemming sent Dixon to the dressing room for repairs in the first half while poor old Tilley received a crack in the nose in the second period which laid him out for several minutes.

The Game.
 Dixon scored a short shot in the first minute of play while Hemming followed shortly with a ringer from the center of the floor. Referee Roger Cunningham called a double foul after Murphy had scored again for Beloit and Hemming made the free throw count. Murphy's shot fell short. Dixon counted again and repeated again after Caserly had scored. Murphy chalked up another one and the long lean Phillips then counted for the first time by a flank movement. Hemming scored again bringing the score 10 to 9 in the visitors' favor. The Fairies then laid down a heavy basket barrage until the intermission when they lead by 13 points.

Second Half.
 The airtight defense of the Cardinals in the second half was the feature of the fray. Hemming got going in this period counting his first basket after Tilley had scored from the side. Phelps dropped in a couple of ringers from long range and Dixon followed with one. After a wild scramble for several minutes Phelps finally broke away for another tally. Tilley took time out here. Hemming's free throw was followed by ringers by Hemming and Dixon. Dixon crashed into one of the basket pillars in scoring and broke it. Phelps' score again and Hemming rammed his way through the scoring distance, shook off a couple of Fairies like a Sampson and tossed in an easy one. The Fairies then stalled for a time but the Cards kept moving and finally made them cut loose. Tilley scoring. Phelps' ringer from the middle of the floor ended the game 36 to 30.

Beloit brought up a big delegation of enthusiastic rooters. The lineup and scores:

CHURCH LEAGUE TO HAVE EIGHT TEAMS

The proposed church basketball league, into which six teams arranged to enter at the organization meeting Monday, was practically made a certainty last night when it was learned by Physics Director Craig of the Y. M. C. A. that the Methodists would enter, and probably the Presbyterians. This will make a total of eight teams with two of three churches yet to be heard from.

Another meeting to complete organization will be held Monday. Enthusiasm at the last meeting ran high and competition for the silver cup offered by the Gazette to the winning team is expected to be keen. The cup will become the permanent property of the church winning it three times.

NO RED DEVIL GAME.
 Albany basketball enthusiasts waited in vain for the arrival of the Janesville Red Devil team, scheduled to play there against the high school last night at nine o'clock. P. P. Craig, physical director of the Y. M. C. A., was called to the telephone, but could give no information explaining the team's absence.

BUCK WEAVER ASKS FOR MORE SALARY

"Buck" Weaver, shortstop for the White Sox, accompanied by Mrs. Weaver attended the Beloit-Janesville basketball game last night.

"Buck" stated that it was his first visit to this city although he had heard a great deal about it. He is a royal basketball fan.

When questioned about his intentions for the coming year, Weaver declared that he had asked Comiskey for an increase in salary and that he did not intend to play with the Chicago club unless given the raise.

"Buck" claims he has fine position with the Fairbanks-Morse at Beloit and that he is satisfied with the small town and is content to remain in Wisconsin for the remainder of his days if he is not given a salary boost.

He has been in training all winter and has practiced with the Fairies on several occasions. He says he never felt better in his life and is now ready for the training trip if Comiskey comes through with the tilt in pay.

Hemmy, collector of internal revenue of this district. A large number of aliens have recently taken out citizenship papers after it became known that the federal tax would be higher on account of their foreign citizenship.
